

Message transfers at any of these points in this example. If message cycle stamp is the value of the cycle stamp counter at the time of the transfer, the cycle stamp for this particular message could vary from run to run and from implementation to implementation. Or can it?